Hello everyone, I am Bhavya Batra, a student of class 12b of your school. Some of u would be knowing me and some wouldn't. for those who don't let me first tell them about myself. So, I am a sort of guy who love computers. From the day the first laptop came to my house I was curious to know about each and every part of that great machine. And from that day my goal to learn everything about computers started. I am also a music lover and also have sometime tried to sing in front of my friends but I forgot that my voice is not a melodious one. My friends call me an innocent , kind and polite guy which I accept as well thanks to the teachings and morals of my family. I am also a scholar who stood every time in top 3 in academics Yup you can call me that nerd guy that is in every class. I have also been able to make nice friends who help me a lot and stand with me whenever I need them. We have also done many mischievous things in school that I guess will become a golden memory for us. I always try to enrich my life and the agenda for continuous learning, growth and expansion. I think if the wind does not serve , take to the ores and learn to write our own script in lives. It is truly said "Suvyam Vidhata Hai Tu Manav". And stop not till the goal is reached. So that's all who I am. Me Bhavya Batra singing off
